Diana Ferguson

I studied fine art many years ago. Career and family intervened but I am now returning to my art.

To my surprise, my ability is rusty but hasn't left me, and art brings me enormous pleasure. I work in most media, except tempera.

People's faces fascinate me – people I know, strangers on the Tube, faces of character.

The figure-ground relationship, negative space and the patterns which shapes make, all interest me too.

I would love to start selling my work – given the chance,

I like to paint big and one goal on my wish list is to paint a huge altarpiece.

Fra Angelico, Diego Rivera, Gauguin, Miró, Picasso, Bacon are among the artists who inspire me.
