Peter Walford

Peter took up sculpture after 30 years as an infant teacher; studied basic metal work at Morley College; began making kinetic (wind driven) pieces, and semi-figurative pieces in recycled steel.

His idols are (among others) Alexander Calder, David Smith, Susumu Shingu, George Rickey, Julio Gonzalez.

Had a solo exhibition in Edwards Lane gallery, Stoke Newington.

Became a sculpture obsessive, particularly interested in large, modern, public pieces, visiting many sculpture parks in UK, USA and Europe.

Now his interests are becoming more varied and eclectic, and the sculptors whose work he loves, far too many to list.

Would enjoy talking sculpture / exchanging information with any other addicts.
